

Job Offer - QEHS Manager - Italy

Joining the McPhy team means taking part in an exciting human and professional adventure in a rapidly growing group. In today's world full of technological, environmental and social transformations, our ambition is to play a part in rolling out zero-carbon hydrogen as a solution to climate change, and to help build a social model which is more sustainable, resilient and which has a positive impact on mankind.

Do you share our vision of the future? Do you want to reveal your talents in an international, innovative and dynamic environment? Join us !

QHSE Manager's mission:

Reporting to the QHSE Manager Group, you will be in charge of all matters related to Quality, Environment, Hygiene & Safety for Italy.

- Define the objectives and the annual action plan for quality, prevention of risks related to the quality, environment, health, and safety.
- Audit the internal organization of the company and recommend actions (corrective or preventive).
- Carry out a review of the various quality processes to be implemented in relation to management and operations.
- Participate in risk analyses for products and projects.
- Be the guarantor of ISO 9001, 45001 and 14001 re-certifications.
- Implement a continuous improvement methodology and processes within the existing organization to be confirmed to QEHS standards (8D report).
- Design training and communication materials related to the communications service.
- Ensure the regulatory compliance of the local plant.
- Act as an advisor during the installation and commissioning phases to the operational teams in terms of QEHS.
- Ensure compliance with EHS&S related laws and legislation and keep up-to-date with any changes, inform management about the impact of those changes on their roles and responsibilities. Advise and represent site management in all matters concerning compliance with EHS&S regulations. Maintain professional relationships with permitting authorities, in order to ensure that all regulatory reporting requirements are adhered to and appropriate actions to correct deficiencies are implemented.
- Guarantee timely accident reporting, investigation, analysis, and corrective actions. Inform managers and employees about the causes of accidents/incidents within the operation, in order to create awareness and prevent re-occurrence and injury to people and losses to the company.

Qualifications & Professional Experience

- Engineering or Master's degree in QEHS with a technical orientation,
- Minimum of 4 years of professional experience in the field of QEHS management,
- You are confident in the use of relevant quality tools and techniques and are familiar with relevant directives, norms and standards from the machine and plant construction industry,
- European Directives & Standards: ATEX, MACHINE, CEM, Low voltage, Hydrogen scope,
- Experience in a fast growing environment is a plus.

Soft skills

- Curiosity and ability to develop creativity
- Communication skills both orally and in writing, good spelling, ability to write client manuals
- Ability to synthesize new standards and their impacts on our products
- Autonomy, conviction and persuasion
- Customer focus and action oriented personality with drive for results attitude and priority setting capability

Languages

- Fluency in English, German or French is a plus

Location

- Office: San Miniato, Toscana region, Italy
- This position requires business travel to all McPhy's external sites based on activities related to the requirements of this position

If you are interested in, please send your resume & application letter to jobs@mcphy.com

To learn more about Hydrogen & McPhy visit our web site mcphy.com

